D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

Creatures of Other Days.

By Rev. H. N. HUTCHINSON, B.A., F.G.S., author of "Autobiography of the Earth," "Extinct Monsters," etc. With numerous illustrations. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

"... The disjointed and often fragmentary bones by which these animals are usually represented in museums convey no ideas whatever to the majority of those who see them. It is quite otherwise with such representations as the figures of this work; and if in some cases the idea conveyed may not be strictly correct, it offers a fair approximation, and at all events gives a vivid conception of some remarkable creature which in its main outlines cannot be far from the actual reality."—From the Preface, by Sir W. H. FLOWER, F.R.S.

Man's Place in Nature.

By THOMAS H. HUXLEY. The seventh volume of the author's "Collected Essays." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

CONTENTS: On the Natural History of the Man-like Apes. On the Relations of Man to the Lower Animals.
On some Fossil Remains of Man. On the Methods and Results of Ethnology. On the Aryan Question.

Acting and Actors.

ELOCUTION AND ELOCUTIONISTS. A Book About
Theatre Folk and Theatre Art. By ALFRED AYRES, author of "The Orthoëpist," "The Verbalist," etc. With Preface by Harrison
Grey Fiske; Introduction by Edgar S. Werner; Prologue by James A. Waldron. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Care and Feeding of Children.

A Catechism for the Use of Mothers and Children's Nurses. By L. EMMETT HOLT, M.D., Professor of Diseases of Children in the New York Polyclinic, Attending Physician to the Babies' Hospital, etc. 12mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Originally prepared for use in the Training School for Nursery Maids connected with the Babies' Hospital, New York, this manual has been elaborated in ways suggested by experience, and is now published by request of numerous persons interested. It will be found exceedingly useful, not only in similar institutions, but to mothers, either for themselves, or to be put in the hands of ordinary (untrained) child's nurses. The author's standing as a successful specialist of wide experience in children's diseases guarantees the character of the hints and instructions given.

Red Diamonds.

A Novel. By JUSTIN MCCARTHY, author of "A History of Our Own Times," "Dear
Lady Disdain," etc. Town and Country
Library, No. 144. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"If Mr. McCarthy had never written another novel,
'Red Diamonds' would of itself have sufficed to gain for him a good reputation among writers of fiction. . . .
It may be safely recommended, not only to those who like Mr. McCarthy's pleasant, social, and political stories, but to all who can appreciate a really strong tale of crime and its detection."—London Speaker.

"There is no one who will not welcome a fresh work from the pen of Mr. Justin McCarthy. His name is a guarantee of good workmanship. . . . 'Red Diamonds' shows no abatement of originality and imaginative

"The story is capital reading."—London Saturday
Review.

OUR NEW BOOKS.

READY JUNE 1:

THE WEDDING GARMENT.

A Tale of the Life to Come. By LOUIS PENDLETON. 16mo, cloth, $1.00; white and gold, $1.25.

The story of the continued existence of a young man after his death, or departure from the natural world. Written in a reverential spirit; it is unique and quite unlike any story of the same type heretofore published, full of telling incidents and dramatic situations, and not merely a record of the doings of the sexless "shades" but of living human beings.

THE DANCING FAUN.

A Novel. By FLORENCE FARR. With title-page by Aubrey Beardsley. American Copyright Edition. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

A clever and original story, evidently based on original observation of life. The daring philosophy of murder which the author indicates is a striking moral, sure to attract criticism.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE OUTING Co. have just issued the first volume of their new Outing Library, devoted to "Stories of the Turf." This library will be published quarterly.

THE HOME BOOK COMPANY, New York City, have just issued "Though the Gods and the Years Relent," a story of society interest, by Mrs. Edmund Nash Morgan.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL CO. will issue about June 20 a new book by Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden, entitled "The Church and the Kingdom," consisting of two addresses, the one covered by the title, the other called "What is Christ's Law?" which was recently delivered before the graduating class of Oberlin College. A new book by Andrew Murray, entitled "Love Made Perfect," is also in preparation.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING CO. will publish shortly "The Unpublished Letters of Count Cavour to Madame Circourt," translated by A. J. Butler. With her husband she belonged to the Liberal-Catholic school of Lacordaire and Montalembert, but her friends were of all schools in politics and religion. Her name appears in the memoirs of Mme. Swetchine, Mme. Mohl, and others who, like herself, knew how to bring together all sorts of persons on the common ground of intellectual eminence.

HARPER & BROS. will publish shortly "Carlotta's Intended, and other tales," by Ruth McEnery Stuart, in which will be included "Carlotta's Intended," dealing with the Italians in New Orleans and the Mafia; "Bud Zunts' Mail," "Christmas Geese," "Cæsar," "Aunt Delphi's Dilemma," and "Duke's Christmas." The volume will close with three poems, entitled "Rose," "Winnie," and "Voices." They have in preparation a volume of short stories by Charles Egbert Craddock, entitled "The Phantoms of the Footbridge."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS announce that they will publish immediately a Popular Edition of some of G. A. Henty's stirring stories of adventure. It will comprise "With Clive in India," "By England's Aid," "In Freedom's Cause," "With Lee in Virginia," "The Lion of St. Mark," "One of the 28th," "By Pike and Dyke," "In the Reign of Terror," "Under Drake's Flag," "With Wolf in Canada," and "The Congo Rovers." Each of the volumes will be fully illustrated, attractively bound in cloth, and sold at one dollar each.

MACMILLAN & Co. have just issued "The Natural History of the Christian Religion," a careful study of Christian teaching as developed from Judaism and converted into dogma, by Rev. William Mackintosh; "The Diary of a Journey Across Tibet," by Captain Hamilton Bowers; "The Protected Princes of India," a short account of India under "home rule," by William Lee Warner; "Ethics of Citizenship," by Prof. John McCunn, of University College, Liverpool; "The Aged Poor in England and Wales," by Charles Booth; and a new, cheaper edition, with new preface, of Kidd's "Social Evolution."

ROBERTS BROTHERS have just ready two new books. "The Wedding Garment," by Louis Pendleton, is a story of life after death, relating the experiences of a young man awakening after earthly death to an existence in the other world—in an intermediate region between heaven and hell, where the good and evil live together, temporarily commingled. The book is written in a reverential spirit, and the evolution of the man's soul is full of interest. The other volume is "The Dancing Faun," by Florence Farr, a story with an original motif and dramatic action. It has a title-page by Aubrey Beardsley, which is a striking example of that artist's grotesque force.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

See notice "Weekly Record," P. W., Sept. 7, 1889, [919.]
- Blackmore, R: D. Perlycross: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1894. c. 4+493 p. D. cl., $1.75. [1620]
The story is set, sixty years since, in the village of Perlycross, in the heart of East Devon. Sir Thomas Waldron, the chief land-owner of the parish, dies, and shortly after the funeral it is discovered that his grave has been desecrated. Suspicion of the "body-snatching" falls chiefly on a young doctor, who loves Sir Thomas' daughter. The conflict of gossip and speculation throughout Perlycross, the measures taken by the Waldrons, the troubles of the lovers whose hopes are frustrated by the catastrophe—all these disturbing elements are finally harmonized by the unexpected solution of the mystery. The story is told with a wealth of detail, and the character-drawing shows Mr. Blackmore's accustomed skill.
- Boggs, E: Brenton, D.D. Christian unity proved by holy scriptures, with a sketch of church history. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1894.] 5+55 p. D. bds., 50 c. [1621]
This tract was printed in 1849, when the writer was in his first rectorship in south Jersey. It was never published, having been intended for use in his own parish; to show the evils and wickedness of the divisions among Christians, and to answer questions constantly put to him, then a young person, is not division among Christians a good thing? Also as to the origin and history of the Episcopal Church in England and in this country.—Preface. Bishop Cox found the tract so helpful that he advised its publication.
- Bradford, Gamaliel. Congress and the cabinet-II. Phil., Amer. Acad. of Political and Social Science, [1894.] 1+68-88 p. O. (Publications of the society, no. 106.) pap., 25 c. [1622]
In 1892 Mr. Bradford published a paper called "Congress and the cabinet," which discussed the advisability of giving cabinet officers seats in Congress. Dr. Freeman Snow made an answer to this article in another called "Cabinet government in the United States," in which he stated that such government would not only be unconstitutional, but highly undesirable. In the present paper Mr. Bradford considers the subject further, and replies to Dr. Snow.
- Bray, Claude. Sir Joseph's heir. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., [1894.] 3+181 p. S. (The Tavistock lib., no. 7.) pap., 50 c. [1623]
"Sir Joseph's heir" finds his legacy hampered with the clause that he must be married. How he goes about it to accomplish this while leaving himself heart-whole and quite unfettered is the substance of a bright, if sometimes unnatural story.
- *Bryant, Edwin E. The law of pleading under the codes of civil procedure, with an introduction briefly explaining the common law and equity systems of pleading, [etc.]

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

- Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1894. c. 24+398 p. D. cl., $2.50. [1624]
- *Burr, C. B., M.D. A primer of psychology and mental disease. Detroit, Mich., G. S. Davis, 1894. 12°, cl., $1. [1625]
- *Chaucer, Geoffrey. Complete works; ed. from numerous manuscripts, by Rev. Walter Skeat. In 6 v. V. 2, Boethius and Troilus. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1894. 506 p. 8°, buckram, net, $4. [1626]
- *Cheever, D. W., M.D. Lectures on surgery. Bost., Damrell & Upham, 1894. 591 p. 12°, net, $1.75. [1627]
- Cobbleigh, Tom, [pseud.] Young Sam and Sabina. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1894.] c. 2+174 p. nar. D. (The unknown lib., no. 31.) cl., 50 c. [1628]
"Young Sam" is the son of old Sam Grinter, of Church Farm; Sabina Chiselett is the daughter of the parish clerk of Middeney. Their courtship, which, of course, does not "run smooth," is the central thread of this pastoral of Somersetshire, in which rustic life and local customs are described with pleasing fullness.
- *Coleman, J. A. A treatise on the mechanics' lien law of the state of Illinois, as in force Mar. 1, 1894, so far as the same relates to real estate. Chic., The Wait Pub. Co., 1894. c. 28+281 p. O. shp., $4. [1629]
- Cotes, Mrs. Everard, [Sara Jeannette Duncan.] A daughter of to-day: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1894. c. 2+392 p. D. cl., $1.50 [1630]
The first novel of the author of "A social departure" and other descriptive works. It describes the life of a modern young woman who aspires to be a great artist. Elfrida Bell is born in Sparta, Illinois; after her school days she goes to Paris, and lives an independent life in the Quartier Latin, studying art and associating with Bohemians of every variety. Her parents' loss of fortune throws her entirely upon her own resources; she has made no mark as an artist, and turns to literature for a living. She removes to London, and becomes a journalist, working successfully as a reporter for several papers. Her career pictures the life of many young girls of to-day, and has many sad and tragical elements.
- Crackanthorpe, Hubert. Wreckage: seven studies. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1894. 5+232 p. D. cl., $1.25. [1631]
Contents: Profiles; A conflict of egoisms; The struggle for life; Dissolving views; A dead woman; When Greek meets Greek; Embers. Pessimistic sketches of shattered lives.
- Curtis, Anson Bartie. Back to the Old Testament for the message of the New: an effort to connect more closely the testaments, to which is added a series of papers on various Old Testament books and subjects. Bost., Universalist Pub. House, 1894. 325 p. D. cl., net, $1. [1632]
- Curtis, G. W.: From the Easy Chair. 3d ser. N. Y., Harper, 1894. c. 3+232 p. por. T. (Harper's American essayists' ser.) cl., $1. [1633]
Contents: Hawthorne and Brook Farm; Beecher in his pulpit after the death of Lincoln; Killing deer; Autumn days; From Como to Milan during the war of 1848; Herbert Spencer on the Yankee; Joseph Wesley Harper; Review of Union troops, 1865; Reception to the Japanese ambassadors at the White House; The maid and the wit; The departure of the Great Eastern; Historic buildings; The Boston Music Hall; Public benefactors; Mr. Tibbins' New Year's call; The reunion of anti-slavery veterans, 1884; Bicycle-riding for children; Clergymen's salaries.
- Dandelyon, Ritter. The dissolution: a projected drama. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1894. c. 4+219 p. D. cl., $1 [1634]
The author in this romance condemns all marriage unions without love as unnatural and unholy, and offers as a solution of the question the establishment by law of platonic unions between man and woman, which shall only become intimate with the consent of the woman. His story, laid in mythological times, illustrates this theory in the action of its heroine.
- *Davis, E. P., M.D. A manual of practical obstetrics and diseases of infancy. 2d ed. Phil., P. Blakiston Son & Co., 1894. 8°, cl., $2.50. [1635]
- *District of Columbia. Supreme ct. Rules adopted at the Jan. term, 1894. Wash., D. C., Gov't Pr. Off., 1894. no c. 104 p. O. cl., $1. [1636]
- Dixon, Ella Hepworth. The story of a modern woman. N. Y., The Cassell Pub. Co., [1894.] c. 4+322 p. D. cl., $1. [1637]
Her father's death forced Mary Erie, a young English girl, out into the world in search of means to gain a livelihood. She first studies art and then drifts into literature, and writes a novel. She has her romance, which ends in disappointment. Scenes are given from London art and literary life, which are full of color.
- Dodge, Joseph Smith, D.D. The purpose of God. Bost., Universalist Pub. House, 1894. c. 8+257 p. D. cl., net, 75 c. [1638]
Presents in orderly form those views of divine and human relations which, during a hundred years, have been developing in the Universalist Church.
- Fawcett, Edgar. Outrageous fortune: a novel. N. Y., The Concord Press, [C: T. Dillingham & Co., agts.,] 1894. 2-431 p. D. pap., 50 c. [1639]
Printed in periodical form as "A martyr of destiny." Two young doctors, intimate friends, are the heroes; one is persuaded to marry the daughter of a New York millionaire, although he loves another woman; she makes a will leaving him all her wealth, and then dying suddenly her husband is suspected of having poisoned her.
- Finley, Martha F., [formerly Martha Farquharson.] Mildred's new daughter. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1894.] c. 2+352 p. D. (Mildred books.) cl., $1.25. [1640]
The story tells of the deaths of Captain Eldon and wife, of the adoption of their children, Ethel, Blanche, Harry, and Nan, by two uncles who lived in Philadelphia, of the sad experience of the Eldon children in the Coots' household, and of their friendship with the Keiths; and finally introduces the episode in the life of Ethel which led Mildred Landreth to regard her as a daughter.
- *Florida. Supreme ct. Cases argued and adjudged; rep. by W. B. Lamar, atty-gen., v. 27 to 32, [1891-1893.] Tallahassee, pr. at the Tallahasseean Book and Job Office, 1892-1894. no c. O. shp., $3. [1641]

Kipling, Rudyard. The jungle book. N. Y., Century Co., 1894. c. '93, '94. 11+303 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1670]

Seven short stories, relating, with one exception, to animal life in India. The creatures of the jungle—tigers, wolves, elephants, monkeys—are their own spokesmen, and one of the central figures of the tales is Mowgli, the "wolf-child," whose kin are the jungle-folk, and who knows the lore of the forest. Three of the stories tell of Mowgli and his kinsfolk, and one, "The white seal," is a story of the Pribylov Islands. Most of them have appeared in St. Nicholas. The titles are: Mowgli's brothers; Kaa's hunting; "Tiger! Tiger!" The white seal; "Rikki-tikki-tavi;" Toomai of the elephants; Her majesty's servants.

- The story of a little Irish girl, who when only twelve years old displayed great dramatic ability, and sung Irish ballads in a sweet, thrilling little voice. Her mother was an Englishwoman, and her father a literary man and a Fenian. When the story opens he is serving a five years' term in Portland Prison for a political offence. After his release the family emigrate to America where Doreen studies singing as a profession. The death of her father and mother leaves her at eighteen with a young family to care for. A crime she with others had witnessed in her youth shadows her whole life. The story breathes a deep love of Ireland.

- "This edition is prepared in the belief that the work needs a more helpful and more attractive treatment than it has hitherto received. As it will be read chiefly in college classes, the purpose has been to minimize the proportion of translation and grammatical notes, and to give as much as feasible for the literary and historical appreciation of the drama."—Preface. The introduction presents the material most needful for "the orientation of the student of Wallenstein, as well as for the understanding of the place of this drama in Schiller's development, and its relation to his other works."

- "The awakening of Mary Fenwick" gave the history of the mother, the present tale the love-life of the daughter, who is one of the strong, self-reliant, rather mannish girls of to-day. A beautiful picture of country life is given, and the characterization of the many individuals who finally work the desired result, is full of humor and pathos.

- A cynical story, dealing with a wild young man, a rather pleasing villain, totally devoid of conscience, who flourishes like "the green bay tree" of the Bible. He begins his career in Harrow School, becomes a member of Parliament, and lives his life to prove that so far as success in this world is concerned truth and right have no chance in contest with worldly wisdom and unscrupulousness.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 2, 1894.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.

THE CIRCULATING LIBRARY.—IV.

HAVING disposed of the question of the books, we may now consider the shelving. This may be treated as described in the chapter on the Arrangement and Care of Stock in "Profession of Bookselling," pp. 25-27; on general principles it should not be over seven feet six inches or eight feet high, and the shelves not more than ten inches apart. Seven to seven and a half inches usually gives ample width of shelf. For the fiction department the standard of a twelve-mo may safely be adopted. The use of wall space only is considered by librarians wasteful, double-face bookcases giving maximum of capacity for a given floor area. A medium shelf length of two feet eight or nine inches will divide up space to advantage. The shelves should be of hard wood, or, if of soft wood, the edges should be stained—preferably to imitate oak—and be varnished. They should be kept scrupulously clean and free from dust. Once a year may probably be sufficient to thoroughly clean up a library in order to keep it in good repair. Of course, the daily dusting of the shelves and the weekly couple of hours looking into the corners must not be put aside. Nothing so disgusts patrons as the dusty corners not infrequently found in circulating libraries. The good customers are apt to be eager book-readers, and will take pleasure in prowling around a library looking for some treasure, which generally lies forgotten in some corner. For these the road must be kept clean and inviting. Too much stress cannot be laid on the first principle that should govern all libraries—their entire neatness. Let the bookseller-librarian see to this jealously, and not overlook the annual, or better still, the semi-annual overhauling. A good plan is to close the library, say three days once a year. As Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays will be generally found to be dull days, the library might therefore be closed on the evening of Monday and opened Friday morning. The books can then be dusted, freshly covered and labelled, and the shelves thoroughly cleaned, oiled, or painted and varnished. The slow-letting books and duplicate copies that have seen their best days may be weeded out, and either thrown into the waste-paper heap or put aside to give room for fresher stock.

Before a book, whether it is in a cloth jacket or in paper covers, is loaned, it should be provided with a library cover, on which is to be printed or attached a distinctive label and the rules of the library. A cover, though ignored by some circulating libraries, pays for the outlay in many ways. It keeps the books clean and saves wear, and advertises the bookseller's store as well. The best cover will always be found the cheapest—and this will be one of strong, heavy, dark paper, such as are furnished by P. F. Van Everen and W. B. Harison, both of New York. Possibly these may cost more than the ordinary light manilla, which gives no wear and soils easily; but experience will prove that the more expensive paper will be worth twice the difference in cost.

A light green, red, or yellow label will probably be found most striking on a dark cover. Whatever the color adopted it should be retained, that it may become a sort of trade mark for the library. On the back, in a panel within an eighth of an inch from the top, should be written in a clear, legible hand, the title of the book, and in the middle, the "call number," that is, the number given to the book in the library catalogue and by which it may be called for. On the side should be affixed the label containing the printed rules and conditions under which the book is loaned. For such a label the following may serve as samples:

Rules of Library.

Any person may become a subscriber by paying — dollars, which will entitle him to the use of books for the term of one year.

Any person not a subscriber may procure books from the Library at 10 cents a week by depositing the value of book.

Any subscriber retaining a book longer than 15 days must pay two cents per day for all overtime.

No subscriber is allowed to take more than one book, or get another while he yet retains one.

No subscriber shall lend any books procured from the Library.

Any book damaged or lost must be paid for by the subscriber.

Wiseman's Library.

48 Main Street,

Arbuthnot, Me.

Rent of books: Two cents per day, 10 cents per week.

Books must be returned in the same condition in which they are lent.

Reference may be required.

It is the purpose of this library to keep the latest books always on the shelves. The demands of three patrons are sufficient to add a book to this library.

NOTES ON EARLY ENGLISH EDITIONS OF THE BIBLE.—II.*

THE first complete Bible printed in the English language was translated by Myles Coverdale from the German Bible of Luther and the Latin Vulgata, and was published October 4, 1535. Coverdale was born in 1488, at Coverham, Yorkshire. Unlike Tyndale, whose work was inspired solely by individual enthusiasm and self-devotion, Coverdale's translation was made by the order and with the encouragement of others, his chief supporters being Sir Thomas More and Lord Thomas Cromwell, the minister of Henry VIII. The first edition of Coverdale's Bible was printed abroad by Jacob Van Meeteren in Antwerp, in small folio, fifty-seven lines to a page, but the importation of bound books being prohibited, as already mentioned, the loose sheets were sent to the bookseller, James Nicolson, of Southwark, and bound there. The second edition, published and printed by Nicolson in 1537, also in folio, was the first complete English Bible printed in England. There were many pirated reprints of Coverdale's translation; one was published in quarto form in the same year as the original second edition, and there was a reprint of his New Testament published in 16° in 1538, which, however, bears no printer's imprint. The so-called "Hollybushe edition," a Latin-English New Testament, printed by Nicolson in 1538, is really only a reprint of Coverdale's work, to which the printer gave a new name in order to make it appear as a new translation.

Like his predecessor Tyndale, Coverdale also had to suffer from the fierce opposition of the priesthood against the translators and publishers of the Bible, while the many changes in the policy of the government placed him in frequent peril. In 1540, when his patron Cromwell was executed, he fled to Bergzabern, in Bavaria, where—although formerly a Catholic priest—he married and established himself. On the accession of Edward VI. he returned to England, and was made one of the royal chaplains; at the opening of the reign of Mary Tudor, "the bloody," he was seized and imprisoned, but by the aid of powerful friends escaped the death penalty and was sentenced only to exile; finally, when Mary had been succeeded by Elizabeth, he returned again to London, where he remained until his death in 1569, at the age of eighty-one.

The next English translation of the Scriptures is known as "Matthew's Bible." It was printed in 1537, probably also by Jacob Van Meeteren, though the printer's name is not given, and bears on its title-page, as translator, the name of Thomas Matthew. This, however, was only a pseudonym for John Rogers, a friend of Tyndale's, who assumed it while in Antwerp to make his work appear as an original translation and to hide the fact that it was substantially a reprint of Tyndale's. But it was not even an exact reprint, being rather a compilation made up from parts of Tyndale's and Coverdale's translations, and from a French Bible printed at Neufchâtel in 1535, by Pierre de Wingle. This edition, as well as its reprints, made in 1549 by Thomas Raynolde, William Hyll, John Daye, and William Seres, is known as the "Bugge Bible," from the fact that one of the verses of the first psalm was translated to read "So that thou shalt not neede be afayrd for any bugges (instead of ghosts or terrors) by night." Rogers was one of the many victims of the fierce persecution that distinguished Mary's reign, and in 1555 was put to death "as a seditious preacher."

Rogers' work was succeeded in 1539 by a Bible printed in London by John Bydell for Thomas Bartlett; though it bore the name of Richard Taverne as translator, it was little more than a reprint of previous translations.

More important and interesting than any of these was the "Great" Bible, or "Cromwell" Bible, of which Lord Thomas Cromwell was the originator and patron. Of this no less than seven editions were printed from April, 1539, to December, 1541. The first edition was printed by the famous London printers Grafton & Whitchurch; on the title-page the translators are given as "dyuerse excellent learned men, expert in the forsayde (Hebrew and Greek) tongues." Who these were is not known; but the editor and perhaps the only translator was Myles Coverdale. Cromwell made strenuous efforts to popularize this edition, as the people in general were hostile to a vernacular Bible, and several penal laws were enacted to force it into general use. Henry VIII. issued a proclamation in its behalf; the archbishops urged the clergy to buy and use it; and Cromwell—who at this time was vicar-general—commanded “that one book of the whole Bible of the largest volume should be set up within the church that ye have the care of, whereat your parishioners may most commodiously resort to the same and read it.” In order to prevent competition and make a monopoly of this edition, Cromwell induced the king to prohibit the printing and publication of any English Bibles for the term of five years, and to bestow the privilege to Grafton & Whitchurch for this period. Cromwell mentions this Bible as “the largest volume,” and it might well be called so, as its pages are fifteen inches high and more than nine inches wide. It had been his pride to make the book a typographical wonder, as, indeed, it proved to be. Therefore, when in 1538 the translation was finished and ready for the press, he sent Grafton and Coverdale to Paris, to have the typographical work done by the famous French printer François Regnault, as the art of printing was then further advanced in France than in England. Although Henry VIII. entered into direct communication with the king of France and procured a special license to have the work done in Paris, it nevertheless met with serious opposition, and the authorities of the French douane would have prevented the exportation of the printed sheets to England, but for the prompt action of Dr. Bonner, archbishop of Leicester, at that time English ambassador at the French court. In this capacity he was privileged to have his personal effects passed through the customs without inspection, and the printed sheets as they left the press were in this way sent to England as part of the ambassador's baggage. Before the work was done, however, Francis I. prohibited the printing and commanded that the completed sheets be confiscated. Fortunately his officers, instead of destroying these sheets sold them as waste paper to a dealer, by whom they were sold to Grafton, and finally by him smuggled successfully to London. By Cromwell's orders the press and type were bought from Regnault and also conveyed to London, where the whole work was at last completed by Grafton & Whitchurch. This first edition of 1539 sold at ten shillings unbound, and twelve shillings bound. It has many marked characteristics, which distinguish it from the subsequent reprints. The numerous wood-cuts have borders which are missing in the later editions; the index-hands in the margins and text have ruffles about the wrist, instead of cuffs; the stars are all six-pointed, while in later editions some are five-pointed; the Apocrypha title-page (there called Hagiographa) has the same border as the first title-page, and the New Testament title-page has a border of six wood-cuts, which is not found in any other edition. Of the six subsequent editions, that appeared from 1539 to the end of 1541, only the fourth, of 1540, is noticeable, as bearing Cromwell's coat-of-arms on the title-page. From 1541 to 1549 no new edition appeared, the stock being probably sufficient to supply the demand, but many reprints were made by various printers.

Cromwell's supremacy was not of long duration. The story of his disgrace and fall is a familiar one, and in July, 1540, the haughty earl met his death on the scaffold. Naturally his fate affected the fortunes of his friends; Grafton was imprisoned for a time, but soon released, and later, with his partner Whitchurch, was appointed printer to the king by Edward VI., with special privileges for the printing of devotional books.

A UNIVERSAL INDEX OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE.

A “UNIVERSAL Index to the World's Technical and Scientific Literature” is announced for publication in Vienna. It is to be published in that city by Henry Wien, and F. A. Brockhaus of Leipzig will be general agent. The work as contemplated is intended to furnish a comprehensive index to the literature of scientific subjects. It will include periodicals as well as books, and is meant to represent all the known literature that has appeared in any part of the world on technical or scientific topics. It will be published in weekly parts, and the plan of arrangement comprises: 1, a classified list of all technical and scientific periodicals arranged according to place of publication, giving title, terms of subscription and full lists of contents; 2, a list of books and other publications dealing with scientific or technical subjects. It is hoped that each weekly part may be devoted to one special subject or to several affiliated subjects. Five parts are already projected, covering the chief mechanic arts, mining, chemistry and medicine; further parts are in preparation.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

DECISION IN THE SUIT OF MAYNARD, MERRILL & CO. vs. W. B. HARISON.

JUDGE SHIPMAN, in rendering a decision reversing the preliminary injunction obtained by the plaintiffs in their suit to restrain the defendant from selling certain of their books bought at a fire sale, remarked that the conclusion of the court was “that upon the facts stated in the bill and in the affidavits, the complainant has no remedy under the copyright statutes of the United States, and as both parties are deemed to be citizens of the State of New York, the complainant is without remedy in the Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, and that therefore the order of the Circuit Court for a preliminary injunction is reversed and set aside with costs.”

COMMUNICATIONS.

A PLEA FOR FREE TRADE IN BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

WHILE taxes are to be removed from works of art, the duty of 25 % on new English books is allowed to remain—an unjust discrimination in favor of the wealthy classes, who can afford to buy statuary and paintings, against our intelligent but poor scholars. Knowledge was assessed prior to 1846 at the rate of 20 to 30 cents per pound, according to its style of binding; from 1846 to 1862 the duty has varied between 8 % and 20 %; since then the war tax of 25 % has remained unchanged. In Europe books are taxed only by Spain, Italy, and Turkey; in almost every other civilized country they are free. We imported last year the value of $2,050,306, while we exported of American books $2,341,023 worth, both figures including "engravings . . . and other printed matter." A large portion of imported books come through the mail, causing more trouble and annoyance, in proportion to the revenue, than almost any other imported article; besides, these duties cannot be collected on terms of equality, because they are assessed without the assistance of invoices by appraisers, who seldom know the real value.

There exists no excuse for this barbarous tax, since the right to this copy has been secured to the author by solemn international agreement. I do not believe that reputable American writers have ever asked for the protection by taxes of the product of their brains. We do not prohibit foreign men of letters from writing books in our country, nor do we ask them to pay a royalty on what they may publish here. The question remains if it is expedient to abolish duties on articles from which books are made. I believe we can. Common printing paper used by the daily press is made in the United States at so low a cost that it can be, and is sold at about two cents per pound, which is so much cheaper than the product of other countries that we export large quantities of it.

An English manufacturer, who recently visited us and inspected the Hudson River Paper-Mills, found that, while we pay workmen more per diem, the cost of labor in a ton of our printing paper was only one-half of what it costs him.

Of fine qualities, small quantities of writing, marbled and tissue papers are still imported. The aggregate value of all kinds, including manufactures of paper, amounted last year to $3,383,479—a mere trifle when compared with the value of our home product. William Bradford, the printer, established the first paper-mill near Philadelphia, as early as 1690, so that this can hardly be called an infant industry requiring continued protection.

No important interest would suffer if paper were made free.

If the duty should not be abolished it is said a trust may be formed to control the paper-mills of the country for the purpose of enhancing the price.

We make printers' ink from the black of natural gas and naphtha cheaper than it can be made in other countries, the material being superabundant. The duty, reduced from 30 % to 20 %, should be entirely abrogated.

The duties on leather have practically been left untouched at 20 %; our present census shows to what proportion this industry has grown. The value of the product amounts to about $170,000,000 annually, against an importation of about $6,000,000, chiefly consisting of calfskins for shoes, and colored morocco for binding books. Bark, sumac, and other materials for making leather are among the most prolific products of our own soil. Growers of wheat may as well ask for protection as curriers of leather; if duties were abolished I doubt if more would be imported. The abrogation would only stimulate our tanners to finish better grades in competition with the foreign article.

The duty on binders' cloth is fixed at 35 %. It is made by a "trust," which controls every known factory, and now produces about 75 % in this country and 25 % in Europe of the quantity we use; it could all be made here, and probably will be, irrespective of the tariff. We have now binders whose work is almost equal to work made in England; if books were free, they would learn in time to compete with Rivière in Paris.

While not much used for the quality of books which we import, there is another article which may have caused hesitation about abolishing this duty. I refer to paper pulp made chiefly from spruce logs, which are cut into chips or blocks and ground by machinery driven by water-power. We have a large supply of the timber, and there is no lack of water-power. That pulp needs no protection is evidenced by the fact to which I have referred, that we export the printing paper which is made from it. The value of the annual production here of pulp is estimated at $33,000,000, against an annual import of about $2,000,000. If the abolishment of a duty on this article should curtail our home production—I do not believe it would—it would be a blessing in disguise, because we would thereby save the spoliation of our forests, an argument which may be applied with the same force to the free admission of lumber generally.

While, on account of their anxiety to reconcile protected manufacturers, the framers of a new tariff find it difficult to cheapen the necessities of the life of our laborers, some feeble efforts are at least being made in that direction; but no spokesman worthy of the name comes forward to espouse the cause of our poor student; his books must continue to be taxed to enrich the manufacturer of paper pulp, printers' ink, and binders' cloth.

LOUIS WINDMÜLLER.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS NILES.

THOMAS NILES, one of the oldest members of the American publishing trade, and long an associate of the firm of Roberts Brothers, of Boston, died on the 18th ult., in Perugia, an Italian town about 86 miles north of Rome. He was about seventy years old, having been born in Boston in 1825. After passing through the Latin school, young Niles became a clerk in the "Old Corner Book-Store," and under the direction of Ticknor & Fields obtained during the sixteen years of his apprenticeship the training as bookseller and publisher that he subsequently turned to such excellent use in the shaping of the policy of the house with which he was connected during the better part of his life, and which distinguished the character of its publications from the very start. For a part of the time that he was with Ticknor & Fields he had the entire charge of their publishing business, a position in which he was succeeded by James R. Osgood when he became a member of the publishing house of Whittemore, Niles & Hall. On the dissolution of the latter firm he joined his fortunes to that of the new publishing house of Roberts Brothers, of which, after a few years' service, he became a partner in 1872. Mr. Niles was one of the first to import English editions which it would not pay to reprint. His excellent discrimination and judgment, backed by skilful handling of books, made the reputation of several American authors, notably that of Louisa M. Alcott, and he introduced Jean Ingelow, Philip Gilbert Hamerton, Edwin Arnold, George Meredith, Balzac, and the author of "Ecce Homo" to the American public. Mr. Niles was exceedingly diffident and sensitive as to notoriety of any kind, and it is therefore impossible to give at this writing more than the above meagre account of his business life.

BRYAN H. HODGSON, the English Orientalist, died in London on May 23, in his ninety-fourth year.

KURD VON SCHLOEZER, the great German diplomatist, historian, and philologist, died Sunday, May 13, at Berlin.

ANDREW J. GRAHAM, author of the "Graham System of Phonography," died in Orange, N. J., on May 19, aged sixty-four years.

MISS ALICE KING, the blind authoress, has just died at the age of fifty-five. Miss King contributed for many years to The Argosy, Home Chimes, and other magazines.

WILLIAM McCULLAGH TORRENS, author of "Industrial History of Free Nations," etc., died in London April 26, of injuries received in a street accident.

EDWARD JACKSON LOWELL, a distant cousin of James Russell Lowell, who has done some fine historical work, died in Boston May 11, at the age of forty-nine.

REV. DR. EDWARD BRIGHT, editor of The Examiner, the leading Baptist newspaper in the United States, died at his home in New York City on May 17, aged eighty-six years. For almost half a century he had been prominently identified with Baptist interests in America.

THOMAS C. LATTO, the best-known Scottish poet in this country, died at his residence in Brooklyn, on Saturday, March 12. He was born in 1818, and early in life became one of the group of writers that contributed to Blackwood's Magazine in its palmy days, and helped make it famous.

RABBI A. KOHUT, pastor of the synagogue of the congregation Ahawath Chesed in New York City, died on Friday, May 25. Rabbi Kohut was a native of Hungary, and had only been in this country since 1885. He was the author of several important works, of which the most notable is the "Aruch Completum," a Talmudic dictionary, into which he put twenty-three years of labor.

PROF. GEORGE JOHN ROMANES, a leading English scientist, died suddenly at Oxford on May 23. He was born in Canada May 20, 1848 and was a graduate of Cambridge University. He was an active contributor to scientific journals, and published several important books.

Perhaps his most notable works are: "Christian Prayer and General Laws," 1874; "Animal Intelligence," 1882; "Charles Darwin, His Character and Life," 1882; "Jelly-fish, Star-fish, and Sea-urchins," 1885; and "Mental Evolution in Man," 1888.

THE Scotsman announces the death of Mr. Thomas G. Stevenson, one of the last links between the publishing trade in Edinburgh of today and that of the earlier decades of the present century. Mr. Stevenson's father, who served his apprenticeship with Ballantyne, was brought a good deal into contact with Sir Walter Scott, and figured as "Dear Jock" in the letters of the author of "Waverley;" and Mr. Stevenson himself was fond of relating his own personal experiences of Sir Walter.

EDMUND YATES, the well-known journalist, critic, and novelist, died suddenly of apoplexy in London on May 19. He was the son of the actor, Frederick Yates, was born in London July, 1831, and began business life in the London post-office, but soon devoted himself entirely to newspaper work and general literary pursuits. He was dramatic critic of the London Daily News, was editor of Tinsley's Magazine, and a leading contributor to All the Year Round. In 1874 he founded his famous London society journal, The World, which he edited to the end of his life. He also contributed to leading New York dailies. He was the author of several plays and numerous successful books. The first of the latter was "My Haunts and Their Frequenters," published in 1854. Among his most popular novels were "Broken to Harness," 1864; "Business of Pleasure" and "Running the Gauntlet," 1865; "Kissing the Rod," 1866; "Wrecked in Port," 1869, and "The Yellow Flag," 1874.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

STONE & KIMBALL have published the first number of The Chap-Book (May 15), which is planned to have, semi-monthly, at least one signed review in every number, besides several short notices and literary essays. In addition there will be poems and occasional short stories by both well-known and unknown writers. Among the authors whose work is arranged for are Gilbert Parker, Eugene Field, Bliss Carmen, Hamlin Garland, Archibald Lampman, George Santayana, and many others. The next issue will contain a review of Gilbert Parker's "A Lover's Diary," by Richard Henry Stoddard.

THE bound volume of The Century Magazine, (vol. XLVII), comprising the numbers from November, 1893, to April, 1894, once more gives an idea of the broad field covered by this magazine. It contains about 350 illustrations, including Timothy Cole's exquisite engravings of the masterpieces of Rembrandt, Jan Steen, Frans Hals, and other "Old Dutch Masters"; full-page reproductions of paintings by well-known American artists, portraits of Alma Tadema, George Michel, Jean François Millet, etc. In this half year the magazine has made rich and entertaining contributions to biography, and fiction, always one of the strong features of The Century, is ably represented by Mark Twain, Mary Hall-ock Foote, Joel Chandler Harris, Charles Egbert Craddock, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Sara Orne Jewett, Howard Pyle, and many other prominent American writers.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THOMAS NAST, the cartoonist, it is reported, has gone to England to make political cartoons for the Pall Mall Gazette, of London.

M. JEAN AICARD, who has been elected president of the French Société des Gens de Lettres, is a successful poet, dramatist, and story-writer. Several of his works have been crowned by the Academy.

H. T. FINCK is said to be at work upon a book devoted to Japan. It takes some courage to write something that shall be new about this land, which has proved such a mine of material to authors. Lafcadio Hearn is also thus engaged.

EDWARD DICEY has been staying for the last three months in Bulgaria, with a view to obtaining materials for a work on the social and economic conditions of this very curious and interesting community. He is expected to return shortly.

PIERRE LOTI has gone to accumulate literary material in Egypt and the Holy Land. His plan includes a caravan journey through the desert; and he will end his travels by a visit to the Crimea and Moscow. He has six months' leave from his ship.

ARCHIBALD CLAVERING GUNTER seems to take the rejection of his name by the Authors' Club with placid good-humor. From the heights of successful authorship he throws a few hints to some of the authors who, while received in the Authors' Club, are seldom heard of outside of it.

A BRONZE tablet to the memory of E. P. Roe, the novelist, was unveiled at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson May 29. The tablet was procured by public subscription and is placed in a natural wall of rock in the E. P. Roe Memorial Park. The Roe family was represented by two of the novelist's sons, Eltinge and Murray Roe. The orator of the day was the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, of Brooklyn. The other speakers were Hamilton Gibson, the Rev. Dr. Teal, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Mr. Frank Dodd, of Dodd, Mead & Co.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GINN & Co. will have ready early this month "The Philosophy of Teaching," by Arnold Thompson.

JOHN D. WATTLES & Co., Philadelphia, have just ready "Studies in Oriental Social Life," by H. Clay Trumbull.

HENRY JAMES is about to issue two comedies, "The Album" and "The Reprobate," in a volume entitled "Theatricals."

THE first English-Jewish dictionary that has ever been compiled, a work of 800 pages, has just been published by Jacob Saphirstein. Its editor is Alexander Harkavy.

HENRY ALTEMUS, Philadelphia, announces that by arrangement with Ward, Lock & Bowden he will bring out in this country an edition of "A Book of Strange Sins," by Coulston Kernahan.

C. B. LICHTENSTEIN, 36 Columbus Ave., Boston, is prepared to do all kinds of engraving and plate printing for the trade. He has special facilities for printing etchings, photogravures, and large plates.

THE largest collection in existence of the smallest books in the world is said to be that owned by M. Georges Salomon, a Parisian amateur, of whose seven hundred little volumes none is larger than one inch wide by two high.

FRANK VINCENT DU MOND is now on a tour in Europe in the interest of Harper & Brothers, making illustrations for a series of papers on "Literary Landmarks," by Mr. Laurence Hutton, which will appear in their magazine.

THE BLOCH PUBLISHING AND PRINTING CO. will have ready in June "Introduction to the Talmud," by Rev. Dr. M. Mielziner, intended to facilitate the study of this most remarkable literary production of antiquity. It will be published by subscription.

MACMILLAN & Co. have made arrangements with George Allen for the publication of Ruskin's "Verona and other Lectures" in America, and the work will be issued simultaneously early this month. The special edition on large paper is already subscribed for.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD's paper on "Association: the dominating need of man and the keynote of social science," read before the American Philosophical Society, Philadelphia, March 16, 1894, has been issued in pamphlet form. It covers eight pages.

THE TREMONT PUBLISHING CO., Tremont, Ohio, have issued a little book called "Small Talk About Business," originally intended for bankers, but full of suggestions that may be read with profit by every man and woman engaged in mercantile pursuits.

THE title of Mrs. Burton Harrison's story, "A Bachelor Girl," has been changed to "A Bachelor Maid," some one else having already used the former. If, as Mr. Spofford says, there is no copyright in a title, why should not Mrs. Harrison keep the first and better name? The story will be begun in the July Century, and will be published in book form by the Century Company next fall.

WALTER BLACKBURN HARTE, who made many friends with his "In a Corner at Dodsley's" papers, in the New England Magazine, is writing a series of amusing papers in The Literary Weekly on "The Jacobites in Boston," which will be of interest in all social circles. The articles deal with the principles, purposes, and progress of this interestingly fantastic Boston society in a most humorous fashion.

WITHIN a few years a mass of documents and other material has been published in France that throws new light on the inside history of the Maximilian episode in Mexico. John Heard, Jr., has made a study of this episode, and has written for the June Scribner the first accessible account of it which has appeared in an American periodical. Marchetti and Gilbert Gaul illustrate it with a series of historical pictures.

D. C. HEATH & Co., Boston, have in press for immediate issue in their Heath's Modern Language Series Halévy's "L'Abbé Constantin," edited with introduction and notes by Professor Thomas Logie, of Rutgers College. No one can fail to admire the charm of this easy tale, which is one of the best in modern French literature. A few sentences, that might be regarded as objectionable in a text for schools, have been omitted.

THE fashion of binding books in cloth was, according to a writer in Notes and Queries, the invention of Mr. R. E. Lawson, of London, and the first book bound in cloth was a manuscript volume of music, which was subsequently purchased by Mr. Alfred Herbert, the marine artist. On this volume being shown to the late Mr. Pickering, who was at that time (1823), printing a diamond edition of the classics, he thought the material would be admirably adapted for the covers of the work. The cloth was purchased, and 500 copies of the diamond classics were covered by Mr. Lawson with glue.

MERRILL & BAKER, New York City, are making a two-volume edition of George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss," with twelve original photogravures; also an edition of "Anacreon" on hand-made paper with eleven photogravures; a four-volume octavo subscription edition of McCarthy's "History of Our Own Times," with twenty-four photogravure portraits of leading English statesmen, and a twelvemo trade edition of the same; a new edition of twelve of Ruskin's most popular books; an edition of More's "Utopia," with four rare old portraits; and an edition of Judge Tourgee's "An Outing with the Queen of Hearts."

W. B. SAUNDERS, Philadelphia, calls special attention to the works of Dr. William Pepper, which are among the most valuable in his long list of medical literature. Dr. Pepper has recently resigned his position as provost in the University of Pennsylvania in order to devote himself even more exclusively to his literary labors. The "American Text-Book of Practice," "American Text-Book of Gynecology," "American Text-Book of Surgery," and "American Text-Book on Diseases of Children," are acknowledged as authorities by all the leading physicians. Mr. Saunders also announces a New Aid Series of "Manuals for Students and Practitioners," which are to be written by leading specialists to put desired information within the means of struggling students.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish in the late autumn "A Victorian Anthology," by Edmund C. Stedman, who is making an inclusive but choice selection from the entire field of British poetry since the beginning, in 1837, of the present reign—the field surveyed and criticised in his "Victorian Poets." This anthology has long been called for, and is really needed. Not a few collections have been made by amateurs availing themselves of the aid given in Mr. Stedman's critical survey, but none of them satisfactory from his point of view. The many volumes of Miles' "Poets and Poetry of the Century" are encyclopædic, but there is no one-volume anthology compiled with taste and knowledge. The work will be of the same size and style with the Houghton "Cambridge Longfellow," a book justly pronounced a model of its kind.

THE Russian government has recently granted a concession for the establishment in St. Petersburg of an "International Central Bureau for newspapers and journals and the accepting of subscriptions and advertisements." It is proposed to make this a general agency for the handling of foreign periodicals, including the taking of subscriptions and advertisements at publishers' prices. Efforts will also be made to pass the publications through the censor's office as speedily as possible, as the delays in the censorship form one of the most serious obstacles to the circulation of foreign publications in Russia. The concession was granted to Councillor Cyrilus von Berg, of St. Petersburg, but the organizer and manager of the proposed bureau is N. Mattison, of 20 Nevsky Prospect, proprietor of the "first international central advertisement and subscription office and translating bureau" established in Russia, dating from 1870.

THE Loubat prizes at Columbia College for 1893 have been awarded as follows: First prize to Henry Adams for his "History of the United States of America During the Administrations of Madison and Jefferson," in nine volumes; second prize to A. F. Bandelier for his "Report of Investigations Among Indians of the South-western States," in two volumes. The Loubat prizes of $1000 and $400 were established at Columbia College by Joseph F. Loubat for the best works published in the English language upon the history, geography, archæology, ethnology, philology or numismatics of North America. The prizes are awarded every five years, and the competition is open to all persons whether connected with the college or not, and whether citizens of the United States or of any other country. All works entered in the competition must rest on original research and constitute a distinct contribution to science.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Harry Falkenau, who was formerly in the news trade, has opened "The Bookstall" at 92 Washington Street, where he will make a specialty of rare and curious books, as well as keep new books and stationery. He reports encouraging prospects, and we take pleasure in extending a welcome to him.

CHICAGO, ILL.—J. C. Gribbler, who a little over a year ago bought out Miller's Old Book-Store, and, after moving to 107 Clark Street, rechristened it "The Odd Volume," has closed up the store and is again devoting himself to his original vocation—i.e., lithography.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"The Book-Shop" was slightly damaged by a fire on May 12. After a few days' suspension "The Book-Shop" was reopened, and is now again the resort of its many book-loving friends.

DANBURY, CONN.—F. Mullarkey has purchased the news and stationery business owned by David Jennings, and lately managed by F. M. Harrison.

MADISON, IND.—Albert S. Alling has purchased the Rogers & Cowlam Book-Store of J. W. Thomas.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.—Robert W. Taber has moved into a new store, and added a line of artists' materials to his book and stationery stock.

PITTSBURG, PA.—The firm of A. W. McCloy & Co., booksellers, has been dissolved, W. J. Lowney retiring.

TROY, N. Y.—G. L. Shvler succeeds the firm of Shvler & Frothingham, booksellers and stationers, who have recently suspended.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as "not having been received."
